M'NAMARA'S CONFESSION RELATED BY M'MANIGAL.

Judge, Jury, and Spectators in the Indianapolis Trial Held Spellbound.

How the Man Who Plead Guilty to Destroying the "Times" Building Tried to Assassinate Star Witness on a Hunting Trip Detailed—Declares Tveitmo Urged the Los Angeles "Jobs."

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] How James B. McNamara wormed his way into the Los Angeles Times Building, how he set dynamite that destroyed twenty lives, how he suffered the pangs of remorse afterwards and how he attempted to kill McManigal. In the woods of Wisconsin and the unbroken silence of his intended victim, were incidents in the interesting and dramatic story that McManigal told on the witness stand in the dynamite cases today.

HELD SPELLBOUND.

During the recital Judge Anderson leaned upon his desk and riveted his attention upon the witness and every ear was intent in the crowded courtroom and all of the forty-five defendants sat as if glued to their chairs. The intense silence added to the dramatic setting and made the voice of the witness distinct in every part of the room.

It was November, 1910, that he was at his home in Chicago when someone called him by telephone and he answered and recognized the voice of J. Mc'Namara. He went to a hotel where he met the ironworkers' secretary-treasurer, who informed him that he had some work he wanted him to do.

The witness replied that he was just on the eve of starting for a hunt in Wisconsin and that he did not want to do any work until he got over. Mc'Namara inquired who he was working for and the witness gave the names of four persons who would accompany him. After he had assured Mc'Namara the party was all right, he asked him why it wouldn't be a good thing to join his brother, J. B. Mc'Namara, join the party and hide himself for a while in the Wisconsin woods.

GETTING HOT.

The witness said if J. B. was in Chicago and Mc'Namara replied evasively that he could lay his hands on him at any time and added, "It was getting mighty hot" for his brother here. It was announced that J. B. should join the hunting party at Kenosha, Wis., and on Sunday morning, November 6, McManigal was called by telephone at the home of a friend with whom he was staying, that he was to be a member of the party.

THE HAGGARD LOOK.

"I went down to the hotel," said the witness, "and I was really surprised at the change that had taken place in him. He was haggard, his eyes roved in every direction as though he was expecting arrest at any moment, he appeared greatly excited and he seemed to get somewhere where he could be comfortable.

Mc'Namara—"Why did you break off with me?" He said he had been hiding since the destruction of the Times Building, and if he could get off, he would feel better.

"I told him of his plan and he asked about the men who were going with me. He did not like the idea of taking out a hunting license, because he would have to give a description of himself in the license and he did not think he could do that.

"When told that was the only way he could get a license he agreed to do it."

FRANK SULLIVAN.

Mc'Namara was to know as "Frank Sullivan" and under this name was introduced to the hunting party. After reaching the woods and joining their camp, Mc'Namara gave some details of the Los Angeles Times explosion, but was not very free with his confidence.

A PISTOL SHOT.

In the woods one day the witness heard a pistol shot near him and turning suddenly, saw J. B. Mc'Namara with the revolver in his hand. He did not know he was near him till the shot was fired. He walked over to him to see what he had done and Mc'Namara said he had shot at a rabbit.

"I looked in the soft foam for rabbit tracks," said the witness, "and I saw the rabbit run away, which way the rabbit went. He then replied that he had fired the pistol for fun and wanted to scare me."

"No, you didn't," said Mc'Namara. "You were trying to shoot me and if you try to scare me better make a bad shot."

The witness said Mc'Namara seemed to have more confidence in him after this and talked freely of the Times explosion.

He had got into the Times Building and just before he got to the building the night watchman asked him where he was going. He said he wanted to go to the Times composing-room and was about to pass. As he got to the door he met a boy and was asked the same question and made the same answer. The boy opened the door for him and he entered the room. The witness said he was the friend of the Times Building and where he fixed the dynamite and then arranged the clockwork and battery so it would be fired at a given time. After he had arranged for the explosion he said he tore off a gas jet so as to make it look like it had been set into the base of the building."

The witness said Mc'Namara then got the first train out of the city and was a hundred miles away when the explosion occurred.

"Why did you break the gas jet and let the gas escape?" asked the witness.

"So there would be a fire after the explosion," he said Mc'Namara answered.

" Didn't you know there were a lot of people in the building and some of them would be killed?" asked Mc'Namara.

"Yes, but what difference did that make to us."

"The Times for the news," now reads "The Times for the news."

It will soon read "The News for the Times."

BLAMES TVEITMO.

"I asked him why he went after The Times. He answered that Tveitmo had put him on to it. Then he told me about how difficult it was out there to buy explosives; how they decided at last to get a launch and buy dynamite from a powder company on the representation that it was to be used for blowing up stumps on a ranch; how he sent his men to a theater and would keep his seat until he could prove an alibi, said McManigal.

"He said the clerk of the powder company reported they did not make an explosive that strong. He told me how at last he got 500 pounds of dynamite and had it sent to him changing the name of the launch, and how, when they got in the bay they attracted the attention of other vessels because the launch would not make headway and got in the way of other ships."

"He said when this stuff was ready to take to Los Angeles, he had a talk with Tveitmo, telling him either he or Schmidt would have to do the job, since it would not be worth anything if I did."

"The witness said Mc'Namara was in mortal dread of arrest and that he was suspicious of everyone he met. One of the men in the hunting party was a deputy sheriff and accidentally dislodged his badge and Mc'Namara watched him all the time and seemed afraid there was some plot against him.

QUIT HIS JOB AS TREASURER.

McClung Hands Resignation to President Taft.

Custodian of More Than a Billion Dollars.

The Position May Go to Thompson of Ohio.

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Announcement of the resignation of Lee McClung, as Treasurer of the United States, was made by President Taft today. McClung tendered his resignation to the President at a conference at the Executive Mansion today, and its acceptance was later announced by the President from the Executive office with the explanation that Mr. McClung resigned voluntarily. It is believed that Carmi Thompson, now private secretary to the President, will succeed him.

The appointment of Carmi Thompson to succeed him will be followed, it is believed, by the immediate return of Charles D. Hilles to the White House as secretary to the President.

TO COUNT THE MONEY.

The resignation of Mr. McClung means that the money and securities for which the Treasurer is responsible must be actually counted and resupplied for. This will be the greatest single financial transaction in the history of the world. When Mr. McClung assumed the duties of Treasurer he gave a receipt to his predecessor for $1,200,124,945.82.

The transaction is the largest single transaction from man to man on record. While the exact amount of the Treasurer's fund is not known, it is expected it will exceed those figures by many millions. The two-thirds of a century of service of Mr. McClung's receipt to his predecessor was due to a fraction in one of the Tennessee State bonds for which the Treasurer is trustee. It will require probably three months to exhaust the money and securities in the custody of the new administration, because, presuming that Mr. McClung's successor will retire on the 4th of March, with the incoming of Woodrow Wilson, the count must be made all over again for the new Treasurer. With a sum of over a million dollars, the Treasurer of the United States receives a salary of $8,000 and is bonded for only $150,000.

Chinese President's Relations With Russia Subject Him to Severe Criticism in Peking.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Advises to the State Department from Peking say that the rumored Russian convention with Outer Mongolia and Russian pressure on China to sign an agreement recognizing the autonomy of Outer Mongolia, is causing criticism of the provisional President and his Cabinet, the Chinese critics say.

Dispatches confirming the resignation of Cyang Men Ting, Minister of Foreign Affairs, say his withdrawal was because of his disagreement with other members of the Cabinet who were in favor of a Russian alliance concerning Mongolia and because of his refusal to sanction the appointment of Lou Chen Hsiang, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, and special commissioners to treat with Russia on the subject.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING. (BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.) WAMEGO (Iowa), Nov. 14.—Six women wives of prominent citizens of Wamego, composed the jury in a lawsuit here yesterday in which both the plaintiff and defendant were women and in which the controversy was over the ownership of a White Plymouth Rock. Mrs. George E. Hains of Louisville, a village near here, accused Mrs. Mina Johnson, a neighbor, with the theft of the fowls and sued her on that charge. Mrs. Johnson demanded a trial by a jury of men. The testimony showed that both Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Hains raised White Plymouth Rock chickens and that they both allowed their fowls to run at large. After deliberating two hours the jury re-

MONTENEGRINS RENEW ATTACK ON SCUTARI.

(BY CARLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.)

RIEKA (Montenegro), Nov. 14.—The Montenegrin forces have renewed their attack on the Turkish positions around Scutari, which was suspended a few days ago, because of the terrible Turkish gunnery which was arrived and the bombardment began this morning.

The fire was concentrated on the Turkish batteries and did great damage. Two projectiles passed over the town, throwing the inhabitants into a panic.

The Montenegrin commander-in-chief ordered the infantry to advance in the afternoon against the Turkish fortifications on the heights of Bardanjolt. In spite of a half of Turkish shells, the Montenegrins advanced across the Kiri River and before evening, drove the Turks from the trenches and forced them to retire on the town.

TURKISH GUNNERS FIND THE RANGE.

(BY CARLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 14.—The Turkish naval gunners are doing great execution among the Bulgarian troops attacking the Tchatalja fortifications, according to a report from the commander of the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh.

The squadrons lying of Bogadon on the coast of the Sea of Marmora, he says, found the range at from $600 to $800 yards and poured such a withering fire on the fortifications that the Turks that the besiegers were forced to retire from their positions at Diermontepe, Tchiftikdere and Drankouli to the northward from Bogadon and withdraw behind the heights. They suffered great losses.

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

AURORA (III.) Nov. 14.—The government of the United States has taken up the challenge of the Turkish government that each year 200,000 American babies are born dead or die unnecessarily. Miss Julia Lathrop, director of the children's department of the Department of Commerce and Labor, told of the plans in addition to the international convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs. "The child bureau has begun a sweeping inquiry into the reasons why these children die," said Lathrop, and added, "The most interesting feature of this inquiry is that we are going to the birth, not the death records. Our own most eminent authorities tell us that half the 200 children under 1-year-old born here have been lost by the application of the methods we already know about. Now is it not better to begin the inquiry into the case of this needless loss of children's lives by urging upon our government to bring the young as much dignity and comfort as the marriage of parents?" We want people to understand that to preserve the nation they must first save the lives of its most precious assets, its babies.

Mixer for Motor Boats Invented by Hiram Percy Maxim, Jr. Consists of Metal Discs.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

HARTFORD (Conn.) Nov. 14.

[Exclusive Dispatch.] The very latest in noise-killing devices of Hiram Percy Maxim, Jr., of this city, inventor of the noiseless gun, son of Sir Hiram Maxim, named English ordnance expert, is a successful noise-killing silencer, which Maxim exhibited today at his laboratory where he is constantly improving and perfecting his gun and cannon silencers.

A set of discs is arranged to surround the gun barrel, which is turned around and around, as water swirls in running from a sink bowl. Thus, they are rendered non-vibrant and at a distance of about thirty feet, not the slightest exhaust pipe noise can be heard in the biggest motorboat engine.

The whole contrivance measures from twelve to twenty-five inches, according to the amount of work it is expected to perform and conveniently weighs from twenty to thirty-four pounds.

GOVERNMENT SUES HAGGIN FOR OVER TWO MILLIONS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The government brought suit here this afternoon against James B. Haggin, representing the amount of $2,512,524, representing the value of cord wood and other timber alleged to have been cut wrongfully by the Anaconda company from lands in Montana between August, 1884, and January, 1896.

United States District Attorney Wise, who brought the government's suit, charged that during the twelve years mentioned the Anaconda company, without permission, cut and removed in all 1,295,974 cords of wood, aggregating in value the amount for which the government sues.

The Anaconda company was a partnership composed originally of Marcus Daly, George Hearst, Phoebe A. Hearst, and Leonard Tevis.

A separate count in the complaint adds that a co-partnership composed of John Caplice and Albert V. McCune, United States District Attorney Wise, and the Anaconda Mining Company, were concerned in the cutting and removal of 717,937 cords of the wood from the Montana lands without permission.

Fight for the Speakership Engages Attention.

Champ Clark Will Reach the Capital Today.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Speakership of the House is expected to receive considerable attention among Democratic Congressmen within the next two weeks. Congressman Henry's statement that he will not be a candidate against Speaker Clark will result in the expenditure of many of Mr. Men's friends declaring themselves in favor of Champ Clark's selection.

It was pointed out today by Congressmen who have been active supporters of Mr. Henry for the Speakership that the Texas man was not an avowed candidate two years ago, although his name figured prominently in the discussion that preceded the selection of Champ Clark.

CLARK DUE TODAY.

Speaker Clark will reach Washington tomorrow and will discuss plans for the legislative session with Democratic Congressmen connected with the more important committees of the House.

The first real legislative work will begin next Wednesday, when the subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations takes up consideration of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. Representative George E. Birmingham, chairman of the subcommittee, said today that the committee had been called together in the expectation of being able to complete the bill by the beginning of the next session, December 2.

SUPPLY MEASURE.

This will be the first of the supply measures to be reported to the House and it will be taken up completely by that body.

Mr. Johnson said the bill would be confined as closely as possible to appropriations, eliminating all matters of general legislation, and that owing to the extreme hearings had taken on such hearings would be unnecessary on the bill of this session. The measure last year carried $25,000,000 and an equally large appropriation is expected at the approaching session.

USE CHAUFFEUR'S CHILD IN FIGHT FOR EARLDOM.

English Lieutenant, Scion of a Noble Family, and His American Wife, Alleged to Have Been Cheated of Their Own Baby, Substitute Infant Born Out of Wedlock in Effort to Gain Millions and Title.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Nov. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary Snow of the State Board of Health today told how Lieut. Charles Henry Raymond Slingby of Victoria, B. C., formerly of Brighton, Eng., and his English wife, and his wife, Dorothy, Mexican-Castilian Slingby of Kentucky, presumably cheated out of their own child by death, substituted the child of a young chauffeur and a high school girl and that they might gain an English earldom and a fortune of millions.

The case has been under investigation by the California State Board of Health for more than two years, but it was not until today, when the secretary of the State Board of Health was confronted with the man of the party, that he supplied the documentary evidence which proves the substitution.

DISCLOSURES.

As a result of the disclosures Dr. William W. Fraser of Weaverville, Trinity county, California, formerly a practicing physician with offices in San Francisco, and a nurse as yet unknown, may be called to answer to the charge of having substituted a baby.

It was through the oversight of the doctor and nurses in filling out the birth certificate that the State Board of Health, with the aid of Dr. Andrew Thorne of San Francisco, a representative of the English heirs, discovered the substitution.

The birth of the child of Paul Colvin, the chauffeur, and Lillian Anderson, the maid, is placed in the office of Dr. Fraser, in the Barbary Coast section of San Francisco. After the birth certificate had been made out recording the Colvin-Anderson child as the Slingby heir there oc-cuts winding up of the card party, according to the testimony of eight women.

The cause was an announcement, said to have been made by Mrs. Jessie Mathis on behalf of Mrs. Stewart, that only those women invited by card would be admitted in the future. Mrs. Thompson is said to have told Mrs. Setzer her presence had caused this announcement.

Quick action on the part of Mrs. Setzer resulted in the disfigurement of Mrs. Thompson and the loss of much hair. Mrs. Setzer weighs 190 pounds. Mrs. Thompson is small, but to illustrate to Judge Burney the force of the blow landed on her by Mrs. Setzer Mrs. Thompson sent a left uppercut to the jaw of her attorney, George F. Birmingham, and he nearly took the count.

HAIR PULLING.

Mrs. H. Bennett, No. 292 South Seventh street, Kansas City, Kan., testified Mrs. Setzer also struck her hair. After the testimony Judge Burney discharged Mrs. Setzer after a lecture, in which he said:

"Public card games must cease. You women should be ashamed of yourselves for pulling hair over your husbands and children. You are faking while you are attending these public gambling games every day?"

"Why, if I had a wife," the judge waxed eloquent, "and she attended these games every day—well, I wouldn't have been here."

"Technically these games are a violation of the law, and they will be treated as such in the future. I feel ashamed of you all."

"Yes, and we feel the same way," one of the women volunteers. "This game has been something awful."

John Mathis, Assistant City Attorney, told Mrs. Jessie Mathis that through the similarity of names he and his wife had been constantly annoyed during the past several months by telephone messages demanding to know "when the game starts," and similar questions.

TONIGHT! TAKE A "CASCARET" SURE

No Headache, Bilious Stomach or Constipated Bowels by Morning.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascaret.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascaret cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and the bilious, gassy gases; take out the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love to take Cascaret because they taste good—never gripe or sicker. WOMAN STENOGRAPHER DIES IN BOSTON HOTEL.

Employer Is Arrested on Suspicion Less Than an Hour After Finding of Body, but Medical Examiner Cannot Yet Say Definitely What Is Cause of Girl's Mysterious End.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES) BOSTON, Nov. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Marjorie E. Powers, a stenographer employed by Arthur T. Cummings, president of the A. T. Cummings Corporation, produce merchants, was found dead in a bath tub partly filled with water, at the Revere House today.

Her employer was arrested on suspicion less than an hour later. It is said that he had engaged a room there with the stenographer Tuesday morning.

Two hours after the death of the stenographer was discovered Medical Examiner McGrath viewed the body.

He said that the girl was lying face down and had been deprived of water.

The water appeared to contain mustard, and a glass of liquid was found in the room. Dr. McGrath said that he could not say until he had performed an autopsy what caused the girl's death. The autopsy will be performed tomorrow.

Twice this afternoon Cummings was brought from the East End Police Station to headquarters, where he was questioned about the girl.

Cummings told the police, so the latter assert, that he had taken the girl to the hotel. According to the police, he said he remained with her on Tuesday, leaving her at the hotel about 10 o'clock that evening. From the time the room was engaged until the death of the girl, was discovered she had no communication with the hotel office.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A brilliant series of social functions, centering about a reception by President Taft, marked today's session of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The President received nearly a thousand of the daughters in the east room of the White House. He was assisted by Mrs. Taft and as the visitors filed by the President had a hearty handshake and a word of greeting for each.

Today's business sessions were confined largely to the receipt of the reports of the officers of the various state conventions accepted two general scholarships, one from Chicago University and one from Loretta Convent of Kentucky, in connection with the education of the Education Committee.

A decision in the matter of extending the time for the issuing of crosses of honor to Confederate veterans, which aroused a storm on the floor of the convention, was postponed.

OBITUARY PUBLICITY LAW.

Twenty-three thousand publications file the required statements with the Postmaster-General.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES) WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—To date 22,000 publications of all kinds have complied with the so-called "newspaper publicity" law, which requires them to file with the Postmaster-General and other local postmasters a statement of their business organization and circulation. This is 82 per cent of the total covered by the act. It includes 1994 daily newspapers, or 75 per cent of the total number.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock has so far served no notices on publications that they may be deprived of the privileges of the mails if they do not comply with the law, because of a test case, involving the constitutionality of the act, is pending before the Supreme Court.

Canadian Prisoner Faces Long Term in Folsom.

Negro Is Shot to Death by Mob of Whites.

Prisoner Acquitted Because He Smoked Cigarettes.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 14.—The international treaty between the United States and Canada to save Jack Black, alias Harry Klein, who escaped from the San Francisco County Jail and fled to Canada, from serving out his 25-year sentence in the Folsom prison. Black will be brought back to San Francisco notwithstanding the treaty does not provide for the extradition of fugitives wanted for jail-breaking.

The San Francisco police department and the authorities at Lethbridge, Alberta, who have served the 25-year sentence for having picked a man's pockets, have agreed upon a way to get Black into the United States and into the hands of the San Francisco police without breaking any treaty provision. This is the way it will be done:

Gov. Johnson has issued a requisition on the Governor of Montana for the delivery of Black to Detective Michael Burke of the San Francisco detective bureau. Burke will get Black from Montana.

When Burke arrives in Montana the police of Lethbridge will bring Black down to the forty-ninth meridian—the imaginary line dividing the United States and Canada—and give him a gentle shove propelling him across the line from Canada into the United States and into the arms of Burke and an assistant.

SHOT BY MOB.

Summary Vengeance Is Expected on a Florida Negro Charged With a Double Murder.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

TAMPA (Fla.) Nov. 14.—Preach Nells, a negro, arrested for double murder at McIntosh, Fla., yesterday, was shot to death today by a mob at Ocala.

Nells was charged with killing Miss Mary Stevenson, eighteen years old, and J. B. Berges, eighty years old. Berges was killed when he attempted to save Miss Stevenson from her assailant. The girl's throat was then cut. Nells, wearing blood stained clothes, was arrested. A mob organized, but officers spirited the negro to Ocala, where he was placed in jail.

More than 200 men surrounded the jail early this afternoon. An attack at that time not being expected, no one was on guard except the jailer who was overpowered. The negro was taken two miles north of Ocala, turned loose and told to run. As he fled he was shot. More than 100 guns were discharged into his body, shooting him to pieces.

It is up to every hotel man to boost steadily and continually for good roads."

"We would consider many of the things in that country very undesirable," he said. "Over there they seldom, if ever, quote rates, but if an American happens along they charge as much as they will stand. We have it proved to us that a little old German servant accompanying us gave the idea that a party of Germans were traveling and had requested rates. Our charges were 40 per cent. less than we had been paying or would have had to pay."

He further discussed a number of technical subjects and from nearly everyone proved that hotels in this country are far better conducted than ours."

"Europe has its wealth of historical lore," he said. "It is one great museum, and in that we can never equal it, but here in California with our millionaire class we can surpass Europe in attracting the tourist by affording him good roads. It is up to every hotel man to boost steadily and continually for good roads."

He introduced George von Ache, the new manager of the organization, who called upon the members present to continue in active support of the good work that is continually being accomplished through united effort.

The hotel met itself was probably the most elaborate ever attempted at the Hotel.

In a bower of roses, the table was centered with a mass of green foliage, in which was inter-spersed roses, carnations and a large centerpiece of roses. The flowers were under the direct supervision of Manager Carter. During the serving of this, Edward Cason, secretary of the association, read a number of messages from members who were out of the city and officers of his associations in various parts of the state. A musical programme was a feature.

School Board Hires Teacher for Stammerers.

First Class of Its Kind to Be Formed Here.

Member Objects to Minister in Public Education.

On recommendation of the School Superintendent the Board of Education yesterday enlarged O. H. Ennis to conduct a public school for stammering children, the first of its kind in Los Angeles.

About thirty-five pupils will become members of the classes under supervision of Ennis, who comes from Seattle where he has had experience in this sort of work. He is well recommended. It is hoped to have the school in operation within a week's time. Probably a room in the Olive street school, just north of Fifth, will be used for the purpose, though this has not been definitely determined.

"There are large cities of the country provide special instruction for stammering children and I deem it highly desirable that we do the same here," said Superintendent Francis. "They can not be expected to receive the attention when mixed with other pupils. In addition to affording them regular instruction, as we do the others, it will be our purpose, so far as possible, to cure them of stammering. One teacher and one room will be sufficient at present."

JUVENILE MORALS.

Rev. O. J. Nave asked the board to devise means whereby ministers of the city may work in conjunction with the teachers and city authorities in overcoming juvenile crime and in bettering the morals of school children. Special attention was called to the fact that ministers of the church should be encouraged to visit the schools in this connection. It might easily lead to a violation of the Sabbath if ministers insisted religious principles into the minds of pupils. Chairman Gulin believed the ministers should take up the question with parents rather than with teachers. Pauts of wayward children are brought to the attention of parents by the teacher, Superintendent Francis explained. It was agreed that no action should be taken before the ministers are able to submit some definite plan of action.

Acting upon suggestions given at a previous meeting, Superintendent Francis reported that there are 150 unsatisfactory rooms used for public school purposes in Los Angeles. Of these, forty are in temporary buildings, thirty in buildings which are otherwise unsuited to the purpose. Eighty-two rooms have half-day sessions because of crowded conditions. The report was referred to the committee on fees and schools with instructions to recommend a plan for overcoming these conditions.

It was voted to appropriate $200 for the purchase of ornamental shrubs to be placed in the buildings about some of the school buildings. Plants needed will be bought from the park department.

Resignations of Teachers: Rev. L. Parsons, Rev. Mrs. E. Ott were accepted. Leaves of absence were granted Miss Mabel Menard. New teachers elected as follows: Mrs. Georgia D. Wheaton, Mrs. Edna N. Olwin, Misses Jennie L. Campbell, Weld, Emma M. Davis, Louis Grier, Jessie M. Donald, Miriam Weston, Conchita Gossen, Marguerite R. Allen, Alice Gibson, Florence T. Hepplock and E. N. Everemeyer.

APPEAL FOR AID.

Red Cross Raising Funds Here to Alleviate Sufferings Caused by War in Balkans.

The Los Angeles chapter of the American Red Cross Association is making earnest efforts to raise funds to be used in alleviating the sufferings caused by the war in the Balkans, in response to an appeal received yesterday from the national offices of the organization.

This appeal carries with it two letters addressed to President Taft, setting forth conditions as they exist in the war zone, one written by Mme. M. B. Grouitch, the American Ambassador at Washington, and the other by Mme. Slavka Grouitch, wife of the Servian Minister at London. Both of these women are Americans by birth.

Mme. Bakhmetoff says she has received a cable from the Queen of Greece to the effect that the need is great and increasing, and imploring her to enlist the aid of the American people. She asserts that the rigorous Balkan winter is closing in and the thousands of sick and wounded may die for want of a little help. Hospital supplies, clothing and many other things are greatly needed.

Mme. Grouitch states that even if an armistice should be declared the troops will still be needed to subdue the rebels, and there would still be much work for the Red Cross in caring for the sick and wounded. The two women named are in close touch with Red Cross workers in Greece, Bulgaria and Servia. After the presentation of the Los Angeles branch is receiving local contributions.

Two Men Arrested on Suspicion of Different Hold-up Jobs About the City—One Identified.

Charles H. Brown and Walter Bush, alias Johnson, were arrested by the police early yesterday morning on East Fifth street, on suspicion of being two of the hold-up men who have been infesting the city.

After being taken to Central Station, Brown was identified, according to the police, by a man who lives on Town avenue, who declares the prisoner is one of the men who robbed him Tuesday night.

The police say Brown has a criminal record, having served terms in the County Jail for petty larceny and other minor offenses. Little is known of Bush.

HOW TO WIN DOLLARS.

At first a young lawyer named Andrews acted for the prisoners and secured their release on $500 bonds in each case. The money, amounting to $900 in all, was put up by wealthy Stockholders. This was not the only time inuring a return on the capital invested, and as the community developed, making possible a more efficient use of their plant, rates will be gradually lowered.

The feature of the meeting was the talk given by E. R. Davis, general manager of the Pacific Light and Power Company. He took up the question of lighting service in the valley and stated that the tendency of the rates was downward.

Major Dow and Chief of Police Alexander had an interview with Mayor Alexander of Los Angeles today on the subject of the proposed lighting system.

The name of the man who was to be responsible for the lighting system was not mentioned.

The building total for the month was $9,675 today, when fourteen permits were issued, among them being one for the Alien Hotel on Pleasant street, which will cost $1,000 and the Noel Apartments, Fourth street and Nevada avenue, the cost of which will be $12,000.

It is proposed to nominate the fifteen freemen who will be responsible upon the charter draft by petition. Accordingly, as soon as the consent of fifteen capable and willing residents is secured they will be put in nomination, and the people will be asked to ratify the choice at an election.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a constitution and by-laws composed of these men: R. C. Frits, J. F. Lerch and Perry Long. The temporary officers are: President, H. Turner; Vice-President, F. F. Lerch; and treasurer, Perry Long.

Any one a resident of Los Angeles county will be eligible for membership and both men and women are included in the membership list.

EASTERN STAR OFFICERS.

The annual election of officers of the Eastern Star Chapter, No. 171, Order of the Eastern Star, was held last evening and the following elected:

Worthy Patron, Mrs. Sadie Anderson;

Worthy Advisor, Edward Shad;

Worthy Minister, Michael Sprinkle;

Worthy Secretary, Mrs. D. J. Pitts; Treasurer, Mrs. Sallie Stark; Conductor, Mrs. May Furlong; Associate Conductor, Mrs. A. T. Hembree.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Self-Accused Murderess Goes to Face Alibiists, Possibly Trial, in Her Missouri Home.

Accompanied by Sheriff M. T. Henderson and his wife, the woman, Mrs. Fannie Lee Lewis, left Los Angeles yesterday to return to the State where she is to face charges of having poisoned two women several years ago.

Requisition papers arrived yesterday.

The woman will be tried directly in the Missouri State Court of Appeals.

Edward H. Rust of this city, as chairman of the garden department of the California Nurserymen's Association, presented a report which was read at the annual convention held in Oakland. The association is just one year old and was formed for the protection of the nurseries of this State, for better transportation facilities, at a less cost, elimination of the middleman, the protection of the industry, and for co-operation with other great mercantile industries of the country. Practical steps toward the accomplishment of these ideas were taken at the convention.

GOES AT LAST.

Accompanied by his wife and two children, Oliver H. Akin, professor and member of the Oklahoma Legislature, yesterday morning departed for Norman, Okla., in custody of the Sheriff from that county. He is under indictment and must answer a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Akin appeared willing to go and announced he had no fear of the result of his trial.

SHOCKING.

It is a wonder that the purity squad of San Diego does not do something about the immodest cigars which go about that sacred city with nothing on but little thin wrappers.

ON THE WAY.

The Metropolitan Operahouse has refused a rental of $150,000 a year to a moving picture concern. As soon, however, as the pictures can be made to talk they can also be taught to sing in Italian and then the Metropolitan management can have no objection to them.

REGRETTABLE.

We are sorry to see early extermination of whales predicted. If there is anything we like it is to be going home from work about 2 o'clock in the morning during the rainy season and meet a nice sociable whale standing on his head on Broadway waiting at the wax models in the show windows.

CHEAP AT THE PRICE.

At a London sale of first editions the complete works of G. P. R. James brought less than a dollar a volume. James had written 139 books, and the purchasers probably thought it was worth 20 cents per volume to make a bonfire of the first edition of the works of any man who had afflicted the public to that extent.

THE PROCESS.

It is said that the immense paintings required for theaters nowadays are painted with the big canvases lying flat on the floor instead of being stretched in an upright position. Some of them look it. We would not dispute it if the Scientific American announced that the canvases were upside down and that the artists stood on their heads and painted with their toes.

GETTING THE DROP.

France is becoming extremely conservative. It likes to go fast, but it is trying to play safe. As evidence of the truth of this statement we are confronted by the plan originated in Paris, and adopted by the Russian government to have parachutes strapped to the shoulders of aviators. Of course it will be lucky for the aeroplane men if the parachutes do not fall for the play.

GOOD ADVICE.

A local judge has refused to grant a divorce to a man 73 years old because he would not promise not to remarry. As he has already been thrice wed the judge felt that he was one of those persons who is naturally cut out for some other career than matrimony. The judge is right. This man should be protected by the law until he is old enough to know better. It is a shame to turn an unprotected youth like him out in a cold world of designing, match-making women.

A WARNING.

Woodrow Wilson has begun to make discoveries. He has now discovered the Philippine Islands and is threatening the natives over there with a visit. It stands to reason that with a Democratic pie brigade which has been starved so long that it does not know where the pie counter is, the Philippines will have to take their share of new officials. If Woodrow does anything, however, to stop the entry of Manila cigars at the port of Long Beach he will be wearing a rope to hang himself.

LITERARY SLUSH.

Dean Ing of London has been speaking before the Library Association and condemning the reading of the modern novel. The reading of the "trash" is, he says, a disease quite as bad as "boozing," and one to which the fair sex is hopelessly addicted.

As regards London women, he may, of course, be right. But not so of Los Angeles! Certainly not. In fact—shamelessly we confess it—for we had rather hoped that there were one or two women left, who were still capable of wallowing in a really mushy, sentimental novel. But how we patronize nothing less cultured than Henri Bernstein.

But then again, what exactly does the dean mean by "trash"? Come to think of it, it is quite possible he thinks with ourselves after all. But no. There is no man yet born who would be brave enough to dub Bernstein "trash." He must mean the dear old worthless, mushy novel.

THE IMMORTAL HARRY.

So our shining example of plutocracy, Harry K. Thaw, has been immortalized in novel form. Miss Ramsey's book, "The Impossible She," just published in London, presents him under the thinnest possible disguise as the central male figure. But in the book family fortunes available to obtain his release, and we find our hero in London after "the regrettable incident," having transferred his attentions to a prominent society maiden of peculiar charm.

It is a clever book and must be conceded a fair portrait of the Harry K. Thaw type, which the author declares is increasing in numbers "by leaps and bounds."

It also presents a serious problem. It is comparatively easy to provide punitive, reformatory and preventive measures for the lower strata of the feeble-minded criminals, but when the canker and rot are sheltered under a polished and wealthy exterior, surrounded by strong family influence, it is almost impossible for the State to interfere.

THE PASSING OF CANALEJAS.

The assassination of the Spanish Prime Minister, Senor Jose Canalejas y Monde, adds another to the problematical political crimes of the world. The meager news so far cabled under Spanish censorship presupposes the assassin to be an anarchist and the circumstances would seem to point to that fact. Anarchy aims solely at the destruction of constituted power, governing strength, without logical cause or reason. It would seem that none but anarchists could have desired to rid the world of a man who had so fully proved himself a sincere friend of the people, an honorable and able statesman, a strong force in Spain during critical times of stress.

Canalejas has directed the affairs of Spain with a firm and sincere hand since February, 1910, when, to the surprise of Europe, he was called to that high post by King Alfonso upon the resignation, under existing and troublous circumstances, of the Moret Cabinet—surprise, because for fifteen years Canalejas had been an ardent advocate of exceedingly democratic reforms. He has been the leader of what is known as the monarchial party, which aimed to govern Spain on the evidently democratic constitutional lines which have proved so satisfactory in Great Britain. At the time this was a drastic innovation and he called into being a keen opposition from the bureaucrats, from whom, however, he had little to fear. A member of a wealthy and prominent family, Canalejas had no ax to grind, no personal advantages to gain and was obviously above the monetary exigencies of graft. Since in his twenties he has been an earnest student of social problems and he entered Parliament at 25 with an ardent determination to improve things for the democracy in Spain.

As Minister of Agriculture in the Sagasta Cabinet he instituted many reforms of a practical nature for the benefit of the laboring classes and was regarded as a very advanced radical, indeed—almost a Socialist as far as he could be compatibly with loyalty to the crown and his country.

There have been many changes in his Cabinet, and, while many legislative measures have passed Parliament, his regime will be chiefly remembered for his scheme to separate the church from the state on the lines followed in France. This caused strained relations with the Vatican, as may be imagined, and feeling ran high. His death cannot, however, be ascribed to a religious fanatic since this particular controversy had reached the stage of an amateur conference and seemed on the eve of satisfactory settlement on both sides.

But whether his death was caused by anarchy or private grudge, the world is the loser by one strong, earnest man. Whether one subscribed to his policies or not, all were agreed upon his sincerity and patriotism. King Alfonso may well mourn the loss of a great statesman and a loyal servant.

CALIFORNIA'S SECOND CITY.

San Francisco has at last opened her blinking eyes to the fact that Los Angeles has passed her in the race of progress and has a larger population and greater wealth. For many years San Francisco depended for her growth upon the development of the mining industry in the gulches and canyons of the Sierras, and later upon the Comstock lode. These resources, although not entirely exhausted, do not amount to a title of their former value. The grain production of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys has fallen off, so that a wheat feed no longer anchors in the bay.

The magnificent courage and enterprise of San Franciscans in rebuilding their city after the earthquake was checked by the exactions of the labor unions, and there are large areas where there are no buildings. Seattle and Portland took away the Alaskan trade from the Bay City, but the merchants have managed thus far to maintain a monopoly of the traffic with the Orient.

The Panama Exposition will contribute much to the growth of San Francisco, but her best asset will be found in the lands north of the Tehachapi and Santa Barbara and south of the Oregon line. There is an area of lands as rich as any in the world, which will liberally respond to intensive cultivation. Much of this land in the coast countries does not require artificial irrigation in order to yield crops, and the unused water of the Sacramento River and its affluents can be applied to irrigate tens of thousands of acres which can thus be changed from unprofitable wheat fields to profitable orchards and vineyards.

The future of San Francisco lies in the development of the agricultural possibilities of the lands east and north of the bay. Los Angeles will watch the growth of her northern neighbor without a jealous qualm. We have a trade empire of our own in Lower California, Sonora, Arizona, Southern Nevada and Utah, the development of which will, with our matchless climate, give us a million people before 1920 puts on its night cap. We shall hope that San Francisco may experience a similar growth. We are reasonably assured of ours. We courageously urge the people of California's second city to develop her possibilities and march alongside of us.

EVERYBODY IS SATISFIED.

Stocks have not declined in New York. The reports of the mercantile agencies show an increase, rather than a diminution, in the volume of business. The retailers are placing slightly-increased orders with the wholesalers. The wholesalers have not lessened their usual orders to the manufacturers. The manufacturers have not lessened their working forces, nor lowered the wages of their workmen. No railroads are going into the hands of receivers. The number of sheriff's sales is not greater. The highways are not lined with traps. The farmers are not guarding their poultry-houses with shotguns. Prosperity refuses to descend from the pedestal on which the administration of President Taft has securely placed her. The evils which Roosevelt and Johnson predicted would come upon the land unless they were elected are fading in numbers "by leaps and bounds."

It also presents a serious problem. It is comparatively easy to provide punitive, reformatory and preventive measures for the lower strata of the feeble-minded criminals, but when the canker and rot are sheltered under a polished and wealthy exterior, surrounded by strong family influence, it is almost impossible for the State to interfere.

Giving His Order.

A BURNING QUESTION.

BY LILLIAN COLLINS.

To smoke or not to smoke!

This announces the fall opening of our annual "Tempest in a Teapot." Again we are agitatedly discussing the tremendously vital question of smokers' privileges.

Non-smokers upon the rear section of the street cars glare belligerently through two tightly-closed eyes at the halo of curling smoke that hovers gracefully about the contented visages of the smokers upon the front platform—and the non-smokers are aggrieved. They don't care for halos themselves—what's the use of halos, anyway?

They defend their position by the statement that women don't like the smell of tobacco smoke. They assert that the agitation in favor of the ordinance to prohibit smoking on street cars is a feminist movement.

Shade of Gertrude Atherton!—what sort of logic is this? Having at last won the right to puff the fragrant weed in hotels and cars, shall our newly-made citizens be taxed at street cars? After years of strenuous campaigning for the right to be like men, shall the ardent feminists be deflected from the direct path to economic freedom by a wisp of smoke?

No, I can't seem to feel that the anti-smoking agitation is a part of the feminist movement.

Between the two extreme factions the timid ones are offering a compromise measure. You suggest perhaps for cars.

Worse and worse!—why, this plan impinges upon the already slippery tendency toward sex separation. Shall our male companions in business be permitted to vault lightly upon the downtown tier and vanish from our sight in a veil of mist of smoke, as our erstwhile dream heroes of early girlhood used to do? Shall we consent to shiver on the street corner, awaiting a female car to bear us on our way, while the men escort us wave us a friendly salute from the rear end of the fast-moving smoke?

Honestly, now, girls!—we all know the dear men will never forgo their cigars for the joy of our company, don't we? If we want to travel with our men friends, in business pursuit or pleasure, we'll just naturally have to take them as they are—smoke and all. So let's be reasonable; let's be kind; let's be gracious—and we won't find this old world such a bad place, after all.

But I seriously doubt the assertion that our women are responsible for this silly controversy. I am secretly of the opinion that the whole scheme incubated in the stomach of some dyspeptic male grouch, who now anathematizes a pleasure he may no longer share. And I don't blame him much. It is pretty hard to adopt a Christian attitude toward men who are insolently smoking real tobacco, when one's own indulgence is restricted to a single pipeful of corn silk per diem.

But I don't think he ought to have laid it to the women! For you see, I can't believe that any decent mind would smoke at all. Nearly all of them with whom I have talked shrewdly admitted a secret fondness for it; and I have certain reminiscences of my own which support these admissions.

I once spent a summer at a little mountain resort devoted exclusively to the use of women and children. The air was fine; full of ozone and resinous pine odors; snap, invigorating and pure—but, oh, how we all did long for the honeyed blend of tobacco smoke and atmosphere, as the weeks went by!

So I don't think women really object to smoke—do you? Have you ever watched the men stolidly clinging to the straps, or lurching into the arms of the motorman, while we womenfolk placidly occupied the smoker seats, delightedly sniffing the aroma of fragrant Havanas and odorous cabbage leaves? It's great fun—try it some day.

But, after all, why should our men folk, who go forth daily to their non-too-easy task of bread-winning, be asked to forego the after-breakfast cigar that cheers and prepares them for their busy day? Smoking may not be your ideal enjoyment—it most surely is not mine—yet a large percentage of men do not regard the habit. Do we not men a very small percentage deprive them of a privilege which they enjoy?

We are hearing a great deal these days about the selfishness of the smoker's attitude. I wonder if those who are so anxious to suppress him have ever attached a thought of selfishness to their own attitude. I wonder if those who so loudly proclaim their right to all the fresh air they can absorb for a nickel ever have even a tiny peep at their own rights, which they enjoy?

When people elect to stand solely upon their rights, leaving out the quality of kindness, they make a sad mass of life. A little tolerance is not a bad thing to possess. It's a real asset in the equipment for life's difficult trade.

We're going to be tolerant. We're going to try to enjoy people just as they are, without seeking to shape them to the pattern of our beliefs. It would be a monotonous existence where this thing is possible, though fortunately it can never be. Nature's family is widely diversified; and Nature's people must be trusted to maintain an even balance.

A WISE SOCIETY MATRON.

[Cleveland Leader:] So many bricks are thrown at the ultra-fashionsables of the land and those who have gobs of money, made or inherited, that it is only fair to toss them a noisy once in a while when they show the qualities that deserve such recognition.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, formerly Tessie Fair of the old Bonanza regime, and her nephew, Herman Oelrichs, should come in for a regular shower of flowers for the everyday wisdom and homely virtues they have shown. A few years ago, when young Oelrichs was nearing the age when boys take to cigarettes and drinks as a sign of manliness, Mrs. Vanderbilt played a clever woman's trick on him. Although he had never been identified with its fast set and looks with horror upon the idle young boys and girls who recruit themselves for it by youthful dissipation. It would have been foolish for her to argue with the boy in this matter. Womanlike, she reached him across the line of the least resistance and the most attraction. She offered to be him a cool half million of her money against a like sum of his future fortune on the proposition that he would not smoke or touch intoxicants of any kind until he was 21. He snatched her up at once.

Then, when he was 21, he had to take a bet—and they proceeded to tax him to win it. He was no anarchist or nihilist, or prig or mollycoddle, this young Oelrichs. He went to college and mingled with the boys like a good democratic mixer. He was strong in athletics; trod a fair tenor in the glee club; was out for sports of any kind at any time, and, to his credit, was a good average student. The boys like him, though he never joined them in their sprees; his teachers liked him, too, and his college career was a happy and creditable one.

The mother did not care to his maturity and his aunt Gladys paid him $50,000 to him. He has made no pledges for the future, but a young fellow of his birth and environment, who shows such a level head and so much backbone, can be trusted to smoke and drink with discretion, should he decide to smoke or drink at all.

What They Sing For.

A character in W. J. Henderson's new novel, "The Soul of a Tenor," breaks a rib in romance as follows:

"Let me tell you something, my dear girl, it doesn't make an ounce of difference what these so-called critics say about an opera. They write a lot of pretentious twaddle. Most of them haven't the faintest idea of what it is that makes an opera a success. If the tenor and soprano have plenty of good melody to sing, and the orchestra has plenty of nice scenes with a corking climax, allegro brio, with a couple of B flats in it, and there is a fair amount of doings for the baritone and contralto, plenty of loud music for the chorus and a good ballet or procession, it is a tolerably safe bet that the opera will catch on. And that is what we are all in the business for. We are not there for psychology or imaginations or esthetics. We are there to make the public shout and clap its hands, and hasten to put more dollars in the box office."

"I talked at them, but they developed nothing except preoccupied professionalism. I believe they fairly worship this throbbing mass of mysterious iron; I believe they love this bewildering power which they control. Its problems entrance them; but it simply SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 14.—Judge F. P. Oster has issued a call to the women's clubs of the county, and similar organizations to send delegates to a meeting to be held in his courtroom Saturday for the purpose of organizing a juvenile protective association.

Judge Oster was one of the framers of the California Juvenile law, and now presiding judge of the County Juvenile Court, and spends a great amount of time studying the juvenile problem in all its phases.

He believes that the unlimited money available for a juvenile association is destined to go to the boys and girls, and through such an organization hopes to extend and more practically the work of the Juvenile Court.

Judge Oster believes that most boys and girls are not inherently bad, and that they simply need a guidance to be kept in right paths. This will be one of the objects of the association.

Business Men
EAT AND TALK.Annual Feed of Pasadena
Chamber of Commerce.Advertising Was the Topic
Considered by Speakers.Two Young Artists Achieve
Wonderful Success.

PASADENA, Nov. 15.—The dinner given at the Hotel Maryland last night by the Board of Trade was attended by about 250 representative business and professional men of Pasadena and was one of the most enthusiastic gathering that has occurred for some time. The subject of discussion for the evening was the city and how to advertise it and bring the many advantages it possessed more to the attention of persons living in other parts of the country. The question of raising money with which to put out more literature particularly was gone into.

It is H. Turner, president of the organization presided, and there were several addresses, followed by a general discussion. The speakers on the program were Rev. Robert E. Burdette, Fred Elmer Wilcox, J. B. Coulston and Charles W. Bell. Rev. Burdette, who spoke first, said in part:

"It's an easy enough thing to build a city and to keep it going. Just think of the difficulties of the hardest thing. People will swarm into a good town like flies around a molasses barrel. Make your town fair and it will increase in grace and growth and population faster than you can imagine."

"Give it a world-wide reputation in politics, religion and business, for fair play and square dealing, and you can't build a wall high enough to keep people out. You may not be a complete wall, water-proof and airtight, but good people, the right kind of people, will seek through like the waste of an irrigation ditch. The high reputation of a city is its clever advertising, its loudest boomer, its best immigration agent."

"But, a city will never attract new business men by making war on an honest business already established. It will never attract more capital by attempting to do the same thing that has already invested."

"It's a city wide reputation in politics, religion and business, for fair play and square dealing by organizing an alliance of other cities to help it cripple and throttle an honorable corporation, representing the best interests of the town which has been a most welcome and potent factor in the upbuilding of the towns allied against it."

"Let's build fast and as high and as broadly as we can. But let's start right and keep right. Every investment should follow."

TO LAY CABLES.

The Home Telephone Company yesterday announced some of the details of what is to be the permanent telephone system resulting from the consolidation of the old Home company and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company a short time ago. It will entail the laying of 1,000 miles of cable in the city and the removal of all duplicate poles.

These cables will range in size from what are known as 600 pair cables. Aerial cables will be put on every street in the city.

This supply of cable has already been ordered from the East and it is expected to begin arriving within a short time. Many lines are being worked on in laying the wires. It is expected that a year's time will be required.

The main leaders of the new system will be 600 pair cables. These will be strung in conduits on Fair Oaks and San Dimas streets. On Fair Oaks the cable will extend north of Colorado to Washington street, a distance of a mile and a half, and south from Colorado to South Pasadena, a distance of over two miles. On Colorado the cable will extend from the Union avenue to Orange Grove avenue.

LIGHTING PLANS.

At a meeting that is to be held at the Hotel Maryland tonight, final details of the plan to illuminate Los Robles avenue in a manner similar to the way in which Orange Grove boulevard is to be lighted will be made. The selection of the style of lighting to be recommended will be the principal business of the evening.

Those who are behind the movement—and a petition has been signed by many property owners to that effect—are willing to make the improvement at their own expense, if the city will supply the electricity.

COUNCIL TO WATCH TRACKS.

The Committee on Streets now has a report, recently made under the direction of the City Engineers which describes the condition of all of the street car lines in the city. This report will be used by the Council in making periodical inspections of the tracks of the Pacific Electric Railway Company.

"We will go over the tracks once in a while and see what improvements have been made and what modifications are to be made. The report will be made to the City Engineers, and not to the railroad company, for the improvement of the street car lines, which may not be to the standard, we shall get after the railroad company," said Mayor Thum last night.

TWO GIFTED DAUGHTERS.

Last evening Pasadena took full opportunity to enjoy the exhibition of the talent of two of her gifted daughters. The Shakespeare Club was at a reception at the church last evening. Speeches were made by representatives of the church, the school, the city, and the town, and by Rev. Stafford, who was a college mate of the new pastor, and now pastor of the Christian Church of Covina.

The naval crop of oranges is looking splendid and shows a heavy crop and fruit of unusual size. "The San Dimas Orange Growers' Exchange has its packing-house in excellent shape to take care of the coming year's business and if nothing unusual occurs an inspection of the outlying districts not now served and it is believed his report will be favorable. The new district will include the territory west of Pacific avenue, south of Seventeenth street, and on Barton Hill.

THANKSGIVING RACE CARD.

SIR THOMAS WILL SIP TEA AT BEACH.

SANTA MONICA, Nov. 14.—The members of the Santa Monica Bay Women's Club will entertain Sir Thomas Lipton at tea November 25, at 6 o'clock.

An invitation from one of the members, Mrs. Benjamin, brought an acceptance from Sir Thomas, who expressed his delight.

VISALIA IS MAKING PLANS FOR AUTO RACES AND OTHER EVENTS OF A SIMILAR NATURE.

VISALIA, Nov. 14.—Every indication points to the most successful auto racing events in the history of the San Joaquin Valley in Visalia on Thanksgiving Day, when two road races will be run under the auspices of the same local organizations which had charge of the spectacular races here on July Fourth last.

The first Thanksgiving Day race will be for cars of 400 cubic inches or under displacement. It will be a 100-mile event for a $500 first prize, $200 for second money and $100 for third.

The second race, a free-for-all event for 150 miles, will be the drawing card, with a $700 first prize, $350 second prize and $150 third prize. The race will be run over a 3 1/2-mile course, with four turns.

Already there is assurance of about thirty entries in the two races and a number of others are expected.

Seven cars are being tuned up now in Visalia. In anticipation of the big event, in connection with the races the Moose Lodge of Visalia will conduct a four-day carnival, beginning the day before Thanksgiving and lasting until the end of the week. The A.R.C. and the San Joaquin Valley will also hold reunions in Visalia on the two days preceding Thanksgiving.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

A mysterious Mexican murder case is now claiming the attention of the local county officers. Ladislao Mendoza was killed in his tent in a Mexican camp near Farmersville last night. Mrs. Avila, his paramour, was the only witness.

At the Coroner's inquest in Visalia this morning, the woman could or would not give any description of the murderer. Mendoza was found with a knife in his hand. He had evidently been fighting and was in a death struggle. His body was horribly mutilated. The Avila woman says that after the murderer had killed Mendoza he compelled her to walk a long way with him. In spite of this state of mind, she could not tell whether he was a tall man or a short man and could give no other clue as to his identity. The officers think that perhaps the slayer was one Gabino Obregon, the man the Avila woman referred to this morning some time ago from Arizona, and whom she left recently for Mendoza. They are now looking for him, although the Avila woman declares that he is one man who is not guilty.

AGED MAN LOSES MEMORY.

Visitors from Iowa Forgets Names of Relatives While Coming West to Visit Son.

POMONA, Nov. 14.—The old gentleman, John W. Harrison, who arrived here day before yesterday morning from Fonda, Iowa, and who was met at the train by Chief of Police Tracy as the old man was suffering from a lapse of memory and could not remember who he was or where he was coming here to visit his son, now safely located in the home of relatives at 311 South Garvey avenue, where his sister, Mrs. George Worth, is now staying.

Mr. Harrison wandered away from the train at Salt Lake City on route to Los Angeles, and was picked up by Lake authorities, who learned from a paper to what place he was going. He was again placed on the train in charge of the conductor who wired to the Chief of Police to meet him at the depot. He was met by the Chief, but he could not remember the names of his relatives and was accordingly taken to a hotel and cared for until the identity of his relatives was learned.

PROTECTION OF CHILDREN.

Bernardino Judge Issues Call to Women.

Sons Will Combine Two County Lodges.

Hogue Makes Fine Score With Rifle.

BERNARDINO, Nov. 14.—F. F. Oster has issued a call to the women's clubs of the county, and similar organizations to meet to be held in his courtroom Saturday for the purpose of organizing a Juvenile Protective Association.

Oster was one of the framers of the California Juvenile law, and the presiding judge of the Court of Appeals of the State, and spends a great deal of time studying the Juvenile Protection law.

He believes that most boys and girls are not inherently bad, but simply need guidance and to be kept in right paths.

The next meeting of the society is set for December 19.

ONTARIO PIONEERS.

Men Who Have Lived in Section More than Twenty Years Form an Organization.

ONTARIO, Nov. 14.—The Society of Ontario Pioneers, recently organized by a number of the older residents of the city, now numbers seventy-five members. At its first regular business meeting of the society in the Music and Arts building last night, twenty-six new members were added.

At the first meeting of the organization, several weeks ago, I. W. Whittaker was chosen president, W. R. Harper, secretary, and Mrs. George R. Holbrook, treasurer. Last night William Hart was elected to be vice-president. W. M. V. R. Bradford chosen marshal and W. T. Hamilton, corresponding secretary.

The by-laws of the society were adopted last night, but the charter will remain open until the first of the new year. All persons residing in Ontario or vicinity for more than twenty years are eligible to membership. The next meeting of the society is set for December 19.

CHICKEN TALK.

Joseph E. Davis, secretary of the Los Angeles Poultry Breeders' Association, and the San Antonio Poultry Breeders' Association when they met last evening at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Davis went into the proper feeding of poultry and spoke at length of market conditions.

W. W. Whittaker, president of the local association gave an interesting demonstration of scoring and show points on live birds, some fine specimens of which were placed on exhibition.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union gave a banquet last evening at the Upland Methodist Episcopal Church to their new members, sixty-one of whom have joined since the first of the present month. One hundred and twenty-five sat down to the festive board, and the menu was followed by a few words of welcome, chief among which was that of the county president, Mrs. Clara B. Sheldon of this city.

The new South Euclid school, which has recently completed, having been erected at a cost of $15,000, and which already has an attendance of 263 pupils, was presented yesterday with a large American flag. The presentation was made by Superintendent Principal Jefferson Taylor, and accepted by Principal A. Bridgeman of the school.

As the flag was being raised, the school sang "America," and "The Star-Spangled Banner," and followed with a hearty "Hooray for the W.

LOUD BARKERS ON THE BENCH.

Three Hundred Dogs Appear in Big Show.

Entry List Falls Short of Four-Point Affair.

Lady Owners Very Largely in the Majority.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

The most impressive thing about a dog show is the noise. Consequently, in order to escape being too visibly noisy, I never fail to wear a muff when attending an affair of this kind. Just why a dog, when supposed to be on its best behavior, should suddenly decide to make barking his sole object in life is something of a mystery.

But that is the way they do, and the Third Annual Bench Show of the Ladies' Kennel Association of Southern California, now in full blast at Southland Grand, is no exception to the rule.

Every one agrees that it is the best bench show ever staged in Southern California. Not only is there more class, but there is more noise. The moment the large Russian wolfhound rose up on its hind legs and barked in my left ear, Not only did it scare me out of a year's growth, but I haven't been able to hear out of that particular ear since. All good breeds, however, are muzzled or muzzled, the Russian wolfhound is particularly adept in creating this particular kind of a disturbance.

In other words, however, the Russian wolfhound is disappointing. It has a savage name, and I expected to find each of those present with blood and foam dripping from its mouth. I had supposed that the general appearance of the animal was a coyote, part fox, part wolf, and the Russian wolfhound is particularly adept in creating this particular kind of a disturbance.

BARKERS KNOWN.

Everything considered, the dogs participating in the present show are about the best that have ever displayed in one cluster. If you have never seen 299 dogs trying to bark their heads off you have missed something. That was what happened yesterday. The barks ran the entire gamut, from the mournful wail of the shivering terrier, which is a good place to pass for a bark, to the unmistakable bark of the Great Dane. Most of the dogs, and especially the simon pure bulldog and its various offshoots, seemed to have been born to bark. Some, however, are white bulldogs, intended for picking a quarrel with a brindle relative by the name of Metropetrol Rex, who was stopping two doors below. Restrained by a strong chain, and unable to move, he was unable to bark, and so the barks continued to say what they thought about each other all the afternoon. I stood there for two hours hoping that they might get loose and attack me. But they didn't. But I was doomed to disappointment. The management makes it a point to see that all bulldogs are safely anchored.

The show is one of the best managed ever given here. It is under personal direction of E. J. Purcell of Pasadena.

That our dogs are keeping in the vanguard of progress is proven by the large amount of class on exhibition. The show is improving.

Don't, though, take a blue ribbon or two a few years ago, wouldn't be permitted to look in through the back door today.

Probably the most celebrated canine present is Champion (and his son, in a relation to John) Champion Dupéne Swasher comes from San Francisco. He is the property of Mrs. A. H. Korbel and is being shown by Jack Bradshaw, one of the best-known judges in the country. Champion Dupéne is a most aggravated type of bulldog. He apparently has no frontal bone, and is a stranger to higher education. Around the shoulders he is built like Sam Langford. He looks like some one had hit him in the face with a brick every year. Apparently he has a grudge of long standing which he hopes to settle at some future day. He is taciturn, pessimistic, unseemly and has never been known to smile. In fact, he is not yet sure who the winner of whatever means the best dog in the show. If grim determination counts for anything, he will retain the championship.

DELMONT JUDGING.

The show is being judged by Alf Delmont of Devon, Pa., who last year passed on the qualifications of our very best dogs. It requires a peculiar kind of courage to judge such a show. It takes a courageous man to squat down on his haunches, look a bulldog squarely in the eye and count his teeth. But it takes even a higher type of courage to go into the judging ring with two men and two women, and tell one of the women that the other woman has the better dog.

Most of the dogs seem to be owned by women and the women think a lot of them. "Is on name's little man?" crooned a fond owner over his dog, which was currying the whiskers of Duro West Dolly, a Yorkshire terrier. This is one brand of the many, many reasons why Duro West Dolly has so many that she looks like Rip Van Winkle. Another lady was cuddling a Pomeranian. Society people especially, cultivate the acquaintance of Pomeranians. They are as proud as a peacock, walk like a hackney horse and have a tail like an ostrich plume.

About this time I again passed by the briar-bush and defoliated. They were currying the whiskers of Duro West Dolly, a Yorkshire terrier. This is one brand of the many, many reasons why Duro West Dolly has so many that she looks like Rip Van Winkle. Another lady was cuddling a Pomeranian. Society people especially, cultivate the acquaintance of Pomeranians. They are as proud as a peacock, walk like a hackney horse and have a tail like an ostrich plume.

About this time I again passed by whose pupils are having it out in the Athletic Club boxing tournament which began last night. Tracy, formerly welterweight champion of Australia, is now boxing instructor at the Multnomah Club of Portland; Van Court, under whose instructions Jeffries, Corbett, Britt and other great fighters were developed, is now boxing teacher at the Los Angeles Athletic Club—incidentally boxing writer for the Times.

TOURING AROUND WORLD IN HIS PACKARD PHAETON.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

TO FINISH a trip around the globe, Melvin A. Hall is driving from San Francisco to Los Angeles. From here he will motor to his home in Boston. Hall, who is 28 years old, arrived a few days ago from Nikko, Japan, with his 1910 Packard "30" phaeton, in which he has traversed 34,000 miles in the past eight months.

He drew his own car. He undertook the long trip without any intention of making a record and his route developed itself as it passed from country to country.

After traversing Europe he toured through India, British Malaya and the Federation of Siam, Thailand, Burma, Siam, which are white bulldogs, intended for picking a quarrel with a brindle relative by the name of Metropetrol Rex, who was stopping two doors below.

Restrained by a strong chain, and unable to move, he was unable to bark, and so the barks continued to say what they thought about each other all the afternoon. Don't, though, take a blue ribbon or two a few years ago, wouldn't be permitted to look in through the back door today.

Probably the most celebrated canine present is Champion (and his son, in a relation to John) Champion Dupéne Swasher comes from San Francisco. He is the property of Mrs. A. H. Korbel and is being shown by Jack Bradshaw, one of the best-known judges in the country. Champion Dupéne is a most aggravated type of bulldog. He apparently has no frontal bone, and is a stranger to higher education. Around the shoulders he is built like Sam Langford. He looks like some one had hit him in the face with a brick every year. Apparently he has a grudge of long standing which he hopes to settle at some future day. He is taciturn, pessimistic, unseemly and has never been known to smile. In fact, he is not yet sure who the winner of whatever means the best dog in the show. If grim determination counts for anything, he will retain the championship.

DELMONT JUDGING.

The show is being judged by Alf Delmont of Devon, Pa., who last year passed on the qualifications of our very best dogs. It requires a peculiar kind of courage to judge such a show. It takes a courageous man to squat down on his haunches, look a bulldog squarely in the eye and count his teeth. But it takes even a higher type of courage to go into the judging ring with two men and two women, and tell one of the women that the other woman has the better dog.

Most of the dogs seem to be owned by women and the women think a lot of them. "Is on name's little man?" crooned a fond owner over his dog, which was currying the whiskers of Duro West Dolly, a Yorkshire terrier. This is one brand of the many, many reasons why Duro West Dolly has so many that she looks like Rip Van Winkle. Another lady was cuddling a Pomeranian. Society people especially, cultivate the acquaintance of Pomeranians. They are as proud as a peacock, walk like a hackney horse and have a tail like an ostrich plume.

About this time I again passed by the briar-bush and defoliated. They were currying the whiskers of Duro West Dolly, a Yorkshire terrier. Harness Horse Men Give Idea for Pic-Panners.

The question with the motorcycle fans, which will be decided at the stadium this afternoon, is "Did Ray Peek really score a decisive victory over Fred E. Whittler last Sunday?" To the explanation of the Salt Lake City Star, which noted that he did not have time enough "which to properly tune up his racing Motor."

Chapine.
SHE'S FRENCH AND PETITE.

Whirlwind Joy Ride from Los Angeles to Pasadena is Novel Setting for Tete-a-tete—She Sings and Dances and Wants to Learn to Swim.

BY GRACE KINGSLY.

"Chapine!"
No, Chapine's not the name of a face lotion nor a French cordial.

Yet, if you want the elixir of life to dance through your veins, don't waste money on champagne! It's as dull as cambric tea, compared to that incarnation of bubbling, vivacious, laughing eyes.

"Rose of Panama"—who is, indeed, none other than Chapine; and Sunday night she is coming to the Majestic.

"But you're such a little girl!" I cried.

"I think everybody is disappointed to find me so little," she sighed.

"Oh, that's not the word at all!" I said, when I had finished with her small white glove.

And then we were bundled into the waiting machine, which hurried us arrow-fast out into the night, to the Pasadena road—for the "Rose of Panama" must bloom in that fashionable hot-house tonight, and my interest in her was born of a desire to see, with splashes of color borrowed from the quick-passing splashes of light in which we write things down.

"Oh, I love the imitation danger!" she cried, as the car, racing to atoms for the late train from San Diego, skids furiously against a passing buggy, nearly taking off a wheel.

On the way, the blushing French women—who are always young—but never youthfull.

"What sort of parts do you like?" I demanded quite sternly, to stifle the infectious laughter caught from the effervescent Chapine.

"Opera—opera—like 'The Rose of Panama'?" I asked, quickly, seeing an electric light gleam across her face.

"Oh, more serious than Carmen," she explained—evidently, as one reflects on the amount of blighted affection and carnage in Carmen, and wonders what on earth she would think was "serious," anyway.

"You have always been on the stage?" I inquired, as we slid into view of the Pasadena lights that were like diamonds on gray velvet.

"That's almost always, isn't it?"

"I might say so," she laughed.

"And how did you happen—"

"Oh, yes, I know that question very well. I studied with Trebris Stockhausen, in Frankfort, and in the Paris Conservatory."

"You have always been on the stage?"

"Well, yes, he gets something." I admitted. "Yes, I believe in you can admit. You are a born-again human being who hasten to make a noise like a fairy godmother if he heard you wish audibly for anything."

"Well, I'm sure it was my wish brought about my success."

What was interesting, but quiet, said it?

"How do you keep yourself looking so fresh—with those awful one-night stands?"

And then the prima donna proved herself the little French diplomat she is.

"Ah, it's your wonderful climate. Here I am never tired. We shall build a home at Cardiff, where Nordic and Calve have summer homes."

"Do you dance?"

"Oh, yes, I must learn that. In the old days prima donnas did not progress—ask the bald-head row.

All, the conservatoire, to be sure—

Some of Next Week's Mason Stars.

They will appear in "The Quaker Girl" which, if we are to believe the hints thrown about by the press agent, is by no means as demure as its name implies.

FROM THE REAL BROADWAY.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Little Miss Wonder Eyes and Master Many Questions, seven and six respectively, but not respectively, went from delusion dreariness this afternoon straight to the brightest and most wonderful country of make-believe. In Amesland, province of the Little Theater.

Could the eyes of the brothers Grimm behold the reality which has been evoked for them? Could they would smile happily despite their name, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was as fascinating as "Alice in Wonderland" at the first reading.

As the lights sank in the miniature auditorium the curtain rose to disclose a Maxfield Parrish picture throne room, which in its simplicity had something of air of real regality. A blue, white, dais to your left as you ascended the wooden steps leading to a balcony looking upon a Parrish sea. Here danced and chorused Rosalyn, Amelotte, Ermene, Adeline, Guinevere, Christabel and Asmodeus, diminutive maids of honor. Here came out and out Sir Dandiprat Bombs, the curvaceous chamberlain, in his wig and small clothes, a new-discovered Hogarth. Here were presently in her garniture of brocade gown and raven hair, stricken Snow White, framed in splendor. Her eyes were blue as the pacific ocean, and her legs twinkled to the knee, and neither Miss Wonder Eyes nor Master Many Questions could believe that Prince Florimond of Caydon, who had his virginal sword on sight and plied the eternal regality of his royal eyes, Master Many Questions would have done the same. Just as Miss Wonder Eyes had placed her safety and Florimond of Caydon.

In a dream Many Questions and Wonder Eyes took their places, and the strong, enduring a double tragedy which also breaks the magic mirror which also breaks her beauty and overcomes the cast of Snow White, whose little body so quickly as the poisoned apple is dislodged from her throat, whereas she comes to life to life and Florimond of Caydon.

In a dream Many Questions and Wonder Eyes took their places, and the strong, enduring a double tragedy which also breaks the magic mirror which also breaks her beauty and overcomes the cast of Snow White, whose little body so quickly as the poisoned apple is dislodged from her throat, whereas she comes to life to life and Florimond of Caydon.

Then rapidly the haze of the royal stepmother, Brangomar, disclosed itself, and Miss and Master gasped and recoiled as she plotted with all her quizzical power for the destruction of Snow White. The love of her children, Berthold, his children, looked away from her, faced their slow starvation or Snow White's ignominy.

And the seven little dwarfs, all humorous but the most delicious was dirty-faced Quee, who prefers them ruder and more boisterous, but doubtless his gentleness was quite "wonderful."

Then, still, the haze of the royal stepmother, Brangomar, disclosed itself, and Miss and Master gasped and recoiled as she plotted with all her quizzical power for the destruction of Snow White. The love of her children, Berthold, his children, looked away from her, faced their slow starvation or Snow White's ignominy.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.
Today the Municipal Railway Committee of the City Council will recommend the immediate construction of the line on San Pedro street.

Aesthetic and commercialism had a hot tilt before the Streets and Boulevards Committee yesterday on the subject of the proposed Arroyo Seco parkway.

The Board of Public Works has directed that bids be asked for the construction of 2600 feet of concrete dock at San Pedro.

Electric signs on the top of buildings may be higher if the Council adopts the recommendation of the Committee on Legislation.

At the City Hall.

WILL ASK BIDS FOR CAR LINE.

COUNCIL COMMITTEE CONFERES WITH OFFICIALS.

Hot Fight on Proposed Arroyo Seco Parkway—Board of Public Works Asks Bids for Concrete Dock at San Pedro—Electric Signs May Go Higher Up.

The Municipal Railway Committee of the City Council will today take the following action, as stated by the members of the committee last night, with reference to the railway on San Pedro street:

They will recommend to the City Council to immediately advertise the franchise for sale.

Recommend to the Board of Public Works that they at once advertise for bids for construction of the road.

Call upon the City Engineer to furnish at once a feasible route along the bed of the Los Angeles River, for the construction of a railroad to the harbor, to be understood to mean carrying freight.

The conference, between the committee and Paul Shoup, superintendent of the Pacific Electric Railway, and George Pillsbury, chief engineer of the company, was not satisfactory, in but one small detail.

The plans, as prepared by R. W. Stewart, bridge engineer of the City Engineer's office, were most elaborate and intricate, and met the full approval of Mr. Pillsbury, except in one minor detail, which may be considered quite a remarkable accomplishment on the part of Mr. Stewart. They call for "treatise," which Mr. Shoup declared to be unnecessary, expense of from 10 to 15 per cent. In view of the matter one of the committee men asked him as to the difference in the life of a redwood tie, laid in concrete, treated and untreated. After saying that he disposed of his road in this city were an untreated tie, he said, in answer to the question:

"I really don't know. We have never had occasion to replace one of them. They will last as long as the road will."

It is a matter of indifference to him, he said, as the city will have to pay for them, but he and Mr. Pillsbury strongly recommend untreated tie. In order that this one modification may be made, without going contrary to the instructions of the City Engineer, before hearing him on the subject, another conference was arranged to be held this morning at 10 o'clock, at which he will be present, but there is no way to effect the action of the committee. What the plan is finally determined upon will be set forth in the advertisement for bids.

The road is to extend from Aliso street to Ninth street, and will be built for a three-track system, but at present will be a standard gauge, to connect with the tracks of the Pacific Electric Railway, for relief of traffic on Main street. The bid for its construction will come from the Pacific Electric Railway, which, on the spur of the moment, will receive $15,000 of the contract price, upon completion, and the balance at the end of next year. The total cost is estimated at $200,000.

ARROYO SECO DRIVE.

AUTOMOBILES: DIRT WAGONS?

One of the most difficult that has been before a Council committee since the days of cross-tow car days of discussion, was that before the Streets and Boulevards Committee, with reference to the extension of Griffin avenue, and the opening of a parkway through the Arroyo Seco to connect with the city.

H. W. O'Neil, one of the Park Commissioners, argued for the right of his board to control the road through the Arroyo, promising that they would make it a most attractive drive, and his proposed charter is adopted, will agree to the construction of a street-car line through the Arroyo.

The people living at Hermosa, and the owners of real estate on the near-by hills objected to the proposed road, as it will shut out all heavy traffic, should the city street department have it under their control. It will be subject to all public improvements, the same as other streets, and Mr. O'Neil's "idea is to make it a scenic driveway—a short line to Pasadena, without a grade railroad crossing. The maps were referred to the City Engineer, and meantime the commissioners, with the ground cleared, likewise take time to make up their minds what is the best way out.

It is one of the most scenic spots in the city, and it seems a shame to turn it into a thoroughfare without consideration. On the other hand, many people claim for it as an outlet—though they have built their homes, and up to the present, have been satisfied with the means of communication.

HIGHER ELECTRIC SIGNS.

TIMES AS OBJECT LESSON.

A strong effort was made before the Legislation Committee yesterday to increase the legal height of electric signs to sixty feet, but the advocates were possibly well satisfied to get something more than 50 per cent. of what they asked.

One of the speakers repeatedly referred to the magnificent electrical display on the top of the Biltmore building, as a fine example in the country, he said, in his efforts to secure the greatest height possible for the advertising features.

The ordinance as finally amended by the committee, allows thirty feet of sign, or six-foot space under, a total height of thirty-six feet above the roof. It was referred to the fire chief, building inspector and

City Attorney for redrafting before presentation to the Council.

HARBOR BIDS ASKED.

CONCRETE DOCK AND PILING.

The Board of Public Works yesterday ordered that bids be asked for the construction of the concrete dock, 2600 feet in length, in the west channel at municipal dock No. 1, San Pedro. Also, for wooden piling for the extension of 476 feet of wharfage on the Wilmington pier front.

OBJECTION TO ORDINANCE.

MAY RECALL GUY-WIRE LAW.

Representatives of the public utility corporations appeared before the Legislation Committee of the Council yesterday, and asked that the ordinance requiring the removal of guy wires attached to street curbs be amended in certain particulars that are objectionable to the utility companies.

The committee agreed to recommend a reconsideration of the ordinance, which would have become effective on November 26.

CITY HALL NOTES.

A VETO BY THE MAYOR.

Major Alexander, yesterday, gave out the details of a veto message to the City Council refusing his approval to the ordinance declaring Bronson avenue and Canyon drive to be a police boulevard. He says it would give a monopoly to the railroad for hauling stone from a near-by quarry for street-building and other cities.

The Mayor yesterday signed the ordinance for the improvement of South Main street, south of Thirty-sixth street, a proposition that has been delayed on many occasions by protest of property owners.

The Mayor signed the bill on the Council and likewise on J. D. Irons, attorney general, and Odell and Odell.
